ABSTRACT

Genesis of “nation” category and its conceptions are scientifically analyzed in the article. The democratic processes taking place in the world today create a great opportunity for the growth of ethnic identity in the development of multiethnic and mono-ethnic states, as well as the improvement of inter-ethnic relations. Trends in the world, in particular instability in the world markets, fuel-energy and natural resources lead to aggravation of military-political situation in some countries, and to the extent that it promotes the ideas such as "human rights", "democracy" has led to the activation of power movements in order to acquire natural resources.

Keywords: nation, international relations, ethnical minority, conflict, international consent, religions tolerance, national idea, ideology, democracy, stability.
